Oct 6

him to repair his pens Mr Clark would be a valuable Man in the Asylum I believe Mr Kemp and Mr Clark would go on well together, Mr Kemp wants a pious companion second him in the work of the Asylum & the Committee to-day when different subjects came under consideration — Soon after the House which the Committee had agreed for Mr Butler for too large and expensive — I told the Magistrates Staff was out of my power to sanction such unnecessary expenditure of the Society funds, — Mr Butler did not like the alteration as he thought his son might to have room as Steward as the Committee had agreed to — At length carried the alteration not the building was reduced to 48 feet by 15 divided into different rooms — This was a building quite large enough and to spare, as Mr Butler has only his wife and himself — He finds having work in the whole day, leaving with many unpleasant observations past in the Committee which grieved me much — He wish of this Asylum have been very great — [Oct 7 Tuesday] This day the Committee met again to close the matters under consideration. I was far from being satisfied with all that had been done The Rev^d Mr Butler had been very warm and had expressed himself very ungracefully His son had also shewn a very improper disposition — I was determined to write

Rec^d 7 Magistrates Journal
Part III